Supervisors Meet In Routine Session

Matter of Travel Rates for Grand Jurors Is Given to Board

A request was made to the Board of Supervisors last evening for additional transportation allowance for persons summoned as grand jurors. At present grand jurors receive five cents a mile each way, paid once a week. This compensation, jurors feel, is not sufficient since they frequently travel to and from home each day when serving. It is the thought of the jurors that daily travel allowance should be made. At the last session of the grand jury a resolution was adopted requesting the Board of Supervisors to give the transportation matter consideration in making up its budget. That resolution was presented last evening, received and filed.

County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughrigan sent a communication requesting $50,000 for the county road fund. Referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication was received from the Civil Service Employees' Association asking the board to authorize a salary and sickness group payroll deduction plan. Received and filed.

Sheriff George C. Smith filed his annual report on money paid in fines and for bail. The total collected was $2,197. Fines collected amounted to $1,077, bail $1,120. All of the bail money has been returned with the exception of $50 still retained in one case. The money received for fines has been turned over to the proper authorities.

Terry Brick Corp. Files Schedule

New York, Nov. 15 (Special)—The Terry Brick Corporation of Kingston filed a schedule in U. S. District Court here Monday estimating its liabilities at $2,552,998 and its assets at $1,532,802. The company filed a petition under Chapter XI of the Federal Bankruptcy Act here last October 10, declaring it was unable to meet its debts as they matured.

The petition filed today states that $1,592,866 of the liabilities are unsecured and $767,248 are secured. Included are wages due employees of $31,746 and Federal, state and local taxes totaling $67,605.

Included among the assets are $1,149,123 in real estate, stock in trade of $221,570, machinery, fixtures and tools of $235, and debts due other persons of $253,000. In addition, the petition states, there are other assets the value of which is not yet known.

The company lists eight wholly-owned subsidiaries, including the Star Brick Corp., and the Kingston Brick Corp., both of Kingston. The petition was filed by Leo E. Schwarstein of Yonkers, president of the company.

Walter Donnaruma Is Named Local Dealer; Model Home to Be Erected Soon

The United States Steel Company announced today that its subsidiary, Gunnison Homes has appointed Walter Donnaruma as its franchised dealer for Ulster County. The United States Steel Company recently announced the development of a manufactured home to meet the great demand for a good low cost home.

Donnaruma advised The Freeman today that immediate plans are going forward to erect 200 of these homes in Kingston and Ulster County during 1950. "I am pleased that United States Steel has awarded their franchise to my company. We were recently invited to visit the huge new modern plant of U. S. Steel in Indiana where the basic homes are manufactured. We were tremendously impressed with the methods employed and the high quality of the product as well as its design."

"Our plans have been developed to include four distinct projects. One project will be for two bedroom homes to sell for about $5,500. A second project will be for three bedroom homes to sell for between $7,500 to $8,500. A third project will be for deluxe homes in the $10,000 to $12,000 class. Our fourth project is to erect homes on individual lots. We will erect the desired home, arrange the financing provided the home owner secures his own lot. However, we will concentrate our effort on the home that seems to be the greatest in demand which will be the $6,500 class."

"We have made arrangements with a major life insurance company to finance the mortgages. These homes will be eligible for a 30-year mortgage at a low interest rate. About 5 per cent down payment will be required. The home will be completely ready for occupancy and will carry a warranty from the United States Steel. Furthermore, this project is being worked out with the F.H.A. All materials and workmanship will be under strict inspection of the F.H.A. This insures that the home owner will receive a fine home."

"Our model home will be erected shortly for public inspection. Orders will be taken for spring erection. We will announce the sites of our project as soon as the necessary legal details are completed. Also, the site details are being carefully worked out to incorporate the best in planning under the supervision of the F.H.A. engineers."

"We have associates in this project will be Ernest Smith and Frank Stone. Smith will be in charge of engineering and Stone will handle sales and quality control. The rest of our organization is almost complete and will be shortly announced."

"We have recently been swamped with requests for homes. We will endeavor to get the project underway as soon as humanly possible."

Walter Donnaruma is president of Donnaruma & Augustine, Inc., local insurance agency. Donnaruma also is a licensed real estate broker and in addition to property management, he is mortgage correspondent for several banks, making life insurance companies, making life and industrial loans in the Hudson Valley. Principal office of the firm is at 261 Fair Street. Branch offices are maintained in Highland and New York.

Yugoslavia Accuses Russia of Border Troop Maneuvers

Key Speech Is Expected From Deputy Foreign Minister; Proposals Before Group

Lake Success, Nov. 15 (AP)—Yugoslavia was expected today to snipe at Russia's professed desire for peace by accusing Moscow of maneuvering Soviet troops along the Yugoslav border.

The stage was set at the United Nations for the Yugoslav delegation to strike a new blow in Premier Marshal Tito's increasingly bitter war of words with the Kremlin.

U. N. delegations from both eastern and western nations are waiting now to see how far the Yugoslav spokesmen here intend to commit themselves in the disputes over Russia's demand for a big five year pact.

A key speech was expected from Ales Belder, Yugoslav deputy foreign minister, in the General Assembly's 59-nation political committee.

Informants predicted that he was certain to refer to reported Soviet troop movements near Yugoslav frontiers.

"The political committee has before it divergent American and Soviet proposals on the subject of world peace. The Russian plan condemns what Moscow calls preparations for a new war by Britain and the United States; demands immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb; and calls for a peace pact among the United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union."

The West regards the Soviet plan as a piece of Russian propaganda. To counter it, American

Hearings on Plane Crash End on Quarrelsome Note

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Experts trying to dig out the cause of history's worst air collision began today to sift a mass of conflicting evidence gathered during five days of testimony.

The hearings called to investigate the crash between a Bolivian-piloted P-38 fighter and an Eastern Airlines plane which caused the death of 55 persons two weeks ago—recessed yesterday on a quarrelsome note.

Representatives of the A.F.L.-American Union, stalked out of the hearing room when the special inquiry panel appointed by the Civil Aeronautics Board restricted oral testimony to matters involving the crash.

The union men wanted to read a statement about the need for a general survey of air safety regulations.

The pilots' association later issued a statement which said the procedures followed in the crash probe were "completely and basically wrong."

The withdrawal of the union representatives prompted Harold A. Jones, a C.A.B. member taking part in the inquiry, pointed out that it would be glad to include suggestions for improving air safety in the record of the hearings, while restricting actual testimony to the P-38-airliner collision.

It may be months before the C.A.B. issues its findings on the probable cause of the crash, which occurred near the south edge of Washington National Airport.

Adenauer Says Big 3 Agreed to Slacken Speed of Work in German Plants

Speech Is Made

Chancellor Outlines His Foreign Policy; Gives Parley Results

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 15 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today that Britain, France and the United States have agreed to slow down the dismantling of German industries.

His announcement came as he began negotiations with the western high commissioners in the hope of relaxing occupation restrictions on Germany.

In a foreign policy speech to the West German Parliament, Adenauer made this report on the results of the Paris foreign ministers' conference:

(1) The United States, France and Britain, have agreed to invite West Germany to "many international organizations."

(2) The allies are considering how to alleviate the "consequences" of the present state of war between Germany and the western governments.

(3) The allies have agreed to allow Germany to build a bigger and faster merchant shipping fleet.

(4) The allies have agreed to allow Germany to set up trade consulates in foreign countries.

(5) The western powers have agreed to a certain relaxation of dismantling of former German war industry.

Explaining the decision on dismantling, Adenauer said that the German foreign ministers had agreed to slow down dismantling of certain synthetic gasoline plants and steel factories pending further discussions between the German government and the allied high commission.

Adenauer said that he believed these discussions might ultimately lead to a complete halt in dismantling, or to a big change in the dismantling plan.

Adenauer also said that the allies had refused to stop dismantling.

Los Angeles, Nov. 15 (AP)—Little six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft, missing from her home since yesterday afternoon, was found slain near her home today.

The body was found under rubbish and an axe was nearby.

The child is the daughter of Jules and Lillian Glucoft. The father is a commercial artist.

Maritime Trouble Arises Over Issue Of Rotating Work

Mediators Try to Iron Out Difficulty Among Deck Officers on Ships

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Government mediators worked against the clock today to avert a deck officers' strike threatening to tie up passenger and dry cargo vessels sailing from Atlantic and Gulf ports after midnight tonight.

The A.F.L. Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, with four or five men on each freighter and more on passenger ships, threatens to strike tonight, largely over the issue of rotating jobs. Oil tankers and coal-carrying vessels would be exempt, as would the ships in commerce within the ports.

The "American" luxury liner of the U. S. fleet, advanced its sailing to two hours ahead of the strike deadline—settling it for 10 p. m. tonight from New York.

But Capt. Charles F. May, head of the union, said that vessels on the high seas would be considered in agreement with the International Transport Workers Union. The American will head for Southampton, England.

Frank J. Taylor, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute and chief negotiator for the Atlantic and Gulf port shipowners, said that the officers sign articles to serve until they reach the return ports, so that union members would be obligated to complete their runs, even if the strike develops.

Conciliator William N. Margolis was doubtful that a strike could be avoided. He said after meeting with the parties yesterday that "it looks very much" as if a walkout is imminent.

The contract, which expired September 30, was twice extended. Taylor said the union's other demands have been negotiated and there was little difference between the parties on anything but basic rates in the contract.

The union is asking that the present preferential hiring arrangement be broadened so that officers be chosen in rotation from a hiring hall, spreading employment.

Rail Coach Tickets to Move Above Pre-War Pullman Rate

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Another raise in basic railroad passenger fares in the east now has government sanction. Coach tickets will move above the price of pre-war Pullman transportation.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, splitting 6 to 4 on the matter, issued the increase authority to 61 eastern lines late yesterday. It permits a 12 1/2 per cent hike in both coach and sleeping parlor car mileage charges. It may be made effective on five days' notice to the public.

Commutation fares are not affected, but the upward revision in basic interstate passenger rates will go to 3.76 cents per mile in coaches, and 4.5 cents per mile in Pullman cars.

This compares with 2-cent coach rates and 3-cent Pullman rates in 1941. Four increases since then have advanced the eastern rates more than 50 per cent.

Southern and western railroads in the same period have made advances of about 20 per cent, but rates in these sections now being 2.5 for coaches and 3.5 for Pullmans.

The eastern lines, conceding that the new increase might divert some traffic to competing forms of travel, estimated that the changes would yield them another $37,800,000 a year, to help meet a continuing drop in passenger service revenues, which last year showed a record deficit of more than $252,000,000.

The I.C.C. majority said the lines had proven their case. It held that more railroad income is needed in the light of heavier operating expense and that the new rates "will still be relatively low."

F.B.I. Agent Admits Woman Received Promotions, Work Was Praised

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Judith Coplon, convicted of spying for Russia, was pictured in Federal Court today as a conscientious government worker who "dug out various subversive organizations" for the U. S. attorney general's office.

Her lawyer, Archibald Palmer, gave this picture at a hearing preliminary to the spy conspiracy trial of the former government girl and her ex-friend Valentin Gubitchev, suspended Russian employee of the United Nations.

F.B.I. Agent Robert R. Granville, on the witness stand, agreed with Palmer that Miss Coplon had received promotions in the Department of Justice and that her work had been praised by her superiors.

"Did you know," the lawyer asked, "that she dug out various subversive organizations put on Tom Clark's list?"

"I did not," Granville replied.

The reference was to former Attorney General Tom C. Clark, now a Supreme Court justice.

"Did you ever find that this girl had ever been a Communist?" Palmer asked.

"Not that I can recall," the F.B.I. man said.

Granville commanded the 20 G-men who arrested Miss Coplon, a now 28-year-old brunette, and Gubitchev after a clock-and-garage pursuit in New York last March 4.

He testified yesterday that the arrests were made because Miss Coplon and Gubitchev tried to throw off their pursuers, causing him to believe that secret government papers were about to pass between them.

Miss Coplon, a former U. S. Department of Justice worker, and Gubitchev, suspended United Nations employee, were called for trial yesterday in Federal Court on charges of conspiracy to steal secret U. S. documents for the Russians.

The trial was delayed by a preliminary hearing on a defense demand for return of papers and other property seized from Miss Coplon's handbag when she was arrested here with Gubitchev last March 4.

Return of the papers would be a severe blow to the government's case against the little brunette. The prosecution contends the papers are transcripts of government secrets, while the defense claims they are legitimate personal property.

Miss Coplon's lawyer, Archibald Palmer, contends her arrest and seizure of the papers—made without a warrant—were illegal.

Granville traced in his testimony each move in the pursuit of the pair by the score of agents with seven radio-equipped cars. The defendants finally were arrested by Granville in the shadow of the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad on Manhattan's Lower East Side.

No warrant was obtained, the agent said, because he had not intended to arrest the pair at the time.

Defense counsel asked what led the agent to make the arrest, and the witness explained: "Because of their attempts to

Bruhn Presents Criminal Calendar

Most Cases Go Over to Nov. 21 With Some to Be Settled Earlier

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn on Monday afternoon presented the criminal calendar for the November term of county court and several defendants, indicted by the last Grand Jury, were presented for arraignment. Most of the cases went over until November 21 with several marked for earlier disposition.

The civil calendar was called and one case was announced as ready for Wednesday morning. Jurors were excused until 10 a. m. Wednesday. Several other civil cases which appeared on the day calendar were not answered and County Judge John M. Cashin announced that if they were not answered at the next call on Wednesday he would mark them over the term since he did not desire to bring the jurors back only to find no cases ready for trial.

In several cases on the criminal calendar which were marked for November 21, the defendants appeared only for assignment of counsel, a desire which they had expressed when the indictments were presented in Supreme Court and arraignment made. Pleas of innocent were entered in Supreme Court at which time Justice Harry E. Schirck presided in the Grand Jury's report.

In the abandonment case of Harold Dore, his counsel, Joseph Avis was engaged in court and that matter set down of November 21.

Union Boss Gets Limit Of 48 Hours

President Could Employ Taft-Hartley Law to Get Injunction of 80 Days

Staff Is Cut

Pension Fund Workers Are Dropped From Pay Roll

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis was confronted today with a virtual ultimatum to win a quick coal peace or face fast White House action.

The mediation service said Lewis is being given 24 to 48 hours to get something stirring toward a coal contract. It implied that there would be action by President Truman this week if Lewis does not.

Officials seemed to believe Mr. Truman would invoke the Taft-Hartley Act although the President dislikes that law.

Use of a special fact-finding board outside Taft-Hartley, as was done in the steel dispute, has been considered but that idea appeared to have little support.

The White House evidently was determined to stop a new strike on December 1, the expiration date of a truce ordered by Lewis last week to end a 52-day strike.

Under Taft-Hartley, Mr. Truman could order the Justice Department to seek a court injunction barring a new strike for 80 days.

Lewis slashed the staff of his one-rich "colliers" and pension fund as operators remained in his office to talk about building up the fund again.

With little more than two weeks left of the truce Lewis called in the nationwide coal strike, contracts talks remained deadlocked.

Directors of the Southern Coal Producers Association, a thorn in Lewis' side since negotiations began last May 25, were called to either again today to go over the demands they will make on Lewis to tighten up expenditures from the welfare fund.

They insist that the operators, who contributed 25 per cent of the fund to finance the fund, should have more to say about how it's spent.

The fund is administered by three trustees—one for the mine owners, Lewis for his United Mine Workers Union, and a neutral member.

Earl Van Horn, the operators' member since the fund was started, turned in his resignation weeks ago, saying that Lewis and Senator Styles Bridges—the neutral—had spent the welfare and pension money unwisely.

Bridges, who also wants to quit, has asked for a court accounting of the fund so he can leave with a clean bill.

Headaches were mounting for Lewis as he waited for the soft coal operators to take up his bid to resume negotiations for a new contract without government intervention.

With the threat of a Taft-Hartley Act court injunction hanging over him if he reneges the truce shutdown Dec. 1, he and the U.M.W. were scheduled to pay over $1,420,000 in fines shipped on them for refusing to obey a back-to-work court order in the pension strike of 1948.

Lewis had unsuccessfully fought the fines imposed by Judge T. Alan Goldsborough—right up to the Supreme Court. Of the total, $20,000 was levied against Lewis personally.

In the current dispute, the government represented by the White House and Conciliation Director Cyrus S. Chang, wanted to see whether the operators would continue their cold war.

Today's Business Mirror

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Retailers are facing a pretty bright future in the next months ahead as far as their sales volume is concerned. The pinch comes in profits.

The amount of money being rung up on department store cash registers right now is only a shade below a year ago. And remember that last year was one of the best in grand totals that department stores ever had.

But this year their profits are being shaved down by high operating costs. On every score it costs more to stay in business now than a year ago. As one merchant said: "The more you earn the less you make."

In a recent survey the National City Bank of New York shows that 58 large retail corporations in the first half of this year had a sales volume only four per cent under the comparable period of 1948. But their net income was down 31 per cent. The 27 department and specialty stores in the list reported sales only three per cent under a year ago, but their profits were off 35 per cent.

The latest report of the Federal Reserve Board gives department store sales at two per cent under last year for the week ended Nov. 5.

That's about the most cheering news these retailers have had all this year. From Jan. 1 to date, department store sales slumped an average of six per cent under 1948.

It's true that the comparisons of this year's volume has been made against the banner year of 1948, the tail-end of the post-war boom. And it is also true that the present good showing is partially accounted for by a temporary but sharp drop in the volume of business at this time last year. Last year's bad business makes this year's good business look still better.

But the recovery was made despite the lengthy and costly coal and steel strikes. Just before the coal strike started Sept. 19, sales were seven per cent under last year. They got steadily worse after the steel workers walked out. At their low point, department store sales were down a whopping 12 to 14 per cent under last year.

What about the rest of this year? The head of one of the largest department store groups in the country—Fred Lazarus, Jr., president of Federated Stores Inc.—guesses that dollar volume will be "somewhat lower than a year ago."

That probably means only a few percentage points lower. An exact figure is impossible to give, even at this late date, because of the uncertainty of further strikes and shut-downs.

But with everything normal, retail trade can continue its present pace at the cash register.

That still takes into consideration the past and future losses to wage earners in the strikes. Some estimate that steel workers alone missed getting about $270,000,000 in their pay envelopes while they were idle. That doesn't include the money miners lost while they were on a curtailed work week, a great part of the summer and not working at all in the fall.

A lot of people forget that there are 43,400 idle automobile workers right now. It will be several weeks before they start back to assembly lines moving at pre-strike speed. Meanwhile, a lot more auto workers are already due to be laid off as steel supplies on hand give out. Dates have been set for slowing and stopping the assembly lines in some of the biggest plants.

The chances are—and the merchants know it—that the people won't dig very deep into their pockets to buy the usual Christmas gifts for their families and friends. There won't be much in the pocket.

Generous credit is being extended right and left. That will help keep the sales totals high. There also will be a rash of holiday sales featuring what is known as special promotions and budget merchandise. In some of the larger cities these sales already have started.

But there is that profit margin again. Prices already are below last year. In fact the greatest portion of the decline in total sales can be traced to lower prices.

Still lower prices for next year are forecast by some leading trade authorities. They include Fred Lazarus, who believes spring prices will be down three to four per cent, except perhaps in textiles, in the lines that department stores sell.

Despite the squeeze of sales-prices-profits, there is a lot of pep in the approach that retailers are taking toward their business.

Lew Hahn, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, advised them: "Retailers cannot afford to leave any promotional stone unturned in their efforts to realize the full sales volume potential of the richest harvest months in the calendar, November and December. There is a lot of lost ground to be made up. Sales are striking hard as a fitting windup of the year. They know that November and December can completely turn the year's results."

Art Workshop for Teachers Here Proves Successful

The art workshop conducted in the Myron J. Michael Junior High School for all teachers of the public schools of Kingston proved to be very successful. Holland Foster, special art teacher, secured the services of Miss Hilda Rath, art representative of Binney and Smith of New York City, who came to Kingston and conducted classes for three days. Altogether some 60 teachers attended these sessions and all feel that the time was well spent.

Miss Rath demonstrated practically all of the techniques and mediums used in public school art. After the demonstration classes the teachers proceeded to actually carry on the work and complete the different projects. All of the things learned will have a beneficial effect on all departments using art and handicrafts.

Several teachers from other towns in the county also attended the art workshop and were well pleased with the instruction and new techniques received. The teachers of Kingston who came to the sessions have expressed opinion that it was a very worthwhile experience and have requested that the workshop be repeated next year.

Those teachers who attended the workshop will now be in a position to carry on their own art projects. In short they have suddenly become art teachers with new and different ideas.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools attended all of the sessions, as well as Dr. Ruth Northway and John A. Finerty, Jr. Mr. Laidlaw was hearty in his praise and approbation of the workshop, as well as Dr. Northway and Mr. Finerty.

Holland Foster is the special art teacher of the Kingston schools and his position carries him to all the rooms throughout the system. The teachers will now be in a better position to carry on in art from their own experience.

Following are the teachers who were in attendance at the workshop: K. Abernathy, Nellie Barrett, Maude Bunting, Zeida F. Boyce, Florence Campbell, Alice Cross, Alice L. Former Forsyth Residence Opens As Unusual Offices

Lawyers, insurance agents, clerks, carpenters and plasterers are tending to present day business amid surroundings suggestive of the gracious living of the early 1800's at 41 Pearl street in this city.

The building, located at the corner of Pearl and Palm streets, was until two years ago the residence of the late Ralph K. Forsyth. It was the old Bruyn-Forsyth home, built sometime after the burning of Kingston in 1777 and scene of the parties, dinners and home life of well-to-do families of a century ago.

Today, the same building is a modern-equipped office building, housing law offices, a dentist's office, doctor's office, insurance office, architect's office and the office of the Ulster County Republican Central Committee.

With its modern heating, plumbing and electrical systems, with the partitioning of its large rooms into smaller offices, with its brick exterior facing, the building still retains its old grace.

Its curved main stairway is still there, as are the mansard roof, the original massive doors at the main entrance, the solid walnut carved bookshelves and whatnots, its parquet flooring, 10 open fireplaces, some with old Holland tile.

Comments of historically-minded Kingston residents were for the most part words of praise for the accomplishment of remodeling the building to fit business needs without destroying its architectural features. Some citizens were sorry to see the old stone walls covered with brick veneer, but it was reported that this was necessary as the original stone was deteriorating.

Purchased at Auction
The building was bought, at public auction about a year ago by Attorney N. Le Van Haver, bidding for a new corporation he formed. Members of the corporation are Haver, Charles Gaffney and Richard Overbagh, and the name of the corporation is 41 Pearl Street, Inc.

With work on the basement offices still in progress, Haver, Gaffney and Overbagh moved their law offices to the building two weeks ago. They are located on the first floor, rear. Other tenants already doing business there are the Ulster County Republican Committee and John Egan, attorney, on the first floor; also Dr. John P. Reading, dentist; Frank Campochiaro, attorney; Augustus Schroyang, architect, and Allan L. Hinstein, Inc., insurance, on the second floor.

Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Jr., plans to move to the basement suite of offices upon their completion this week (Tuesday, Nov. 15). Two apartments will be completed soon on the third floor, one apartment being for the building caretaker.

Customers who are transacting business in the building are probably not generally aware of the fact that this is not the first time the building has been used for commercial purposes.

Conducted Business There
From 1820 to 1826, according to Marius Schoonmaker's History of Kingston, Severyn Bruyn, owner of the building, was cashier of the Kingston branch of the Middle District Bank of Poughkeepsie, and conducted business in the lower room in the northeast corner of the house.

Exactly when the present building was constructed is not known, although from its architecture it is believed to have been built sometime after the burning of Kingston by the British in 1777. The late Ralph K. Forsyth, last descendant to live in the home, was reported to have estimated its construction at about 1822.

County records trace the building's owners back to 1818, when it was sold by Jacobus C. Elmendorf to Severyn Bruyn for $4,500.

Severyn Bruyn lived there until his death on October 27, 1856, when the property under his will went to his widow, Catherine Bruyn. Severyn Bruyn also was possessor of much other property, for his will disposes of, in addition to the homestead, six acres in the lowlands adjoining Brabant road; a dairy farm in Herkimer county of 300 acres; two lots of 30 acres each on the northeast side of the plank road, and 45 acres in Dinwiddie.

Catherine Bruyn died July 16, 1867, leaving the homestead at Fair and Pearl streets to her son, Augustus H. Bruyn.

Augustus Bruyn died intestate on October 24, 1904, survived by a nephew, John Forsyth, and three nieces, Mary I. Katharine B. and Petronella B. Forsyth. John Forsyth and his wife, Mary, executed a quit claim deed on the property on March 23, 1905, leaving the property to Mary I. Katharine B. and Petronella B. Forsyth.

Mary Isabella Forsyth died July 1, 1914, leaving her interest in the property to her two sisters, Petronella Forsyth died August 18, 1917, leaving Katharine B. Forsyth as owner of the house and property, which by now was appraised at $15,000.

Katharine B. Forsyth died November 28, 1926, leaving the house, then valued at $30,000, to Ralph K. Forsyth to occupy the same as his home as long as he wished. Ralph K. Forsyth died November 11, 1947, when under the terms of the will the house was offered to the Ulster County Historical Society for $10,000. If after the period of one year, the society did not accept the offer, the house would be sold at public auction, which it was. Purchaser was 41 Pearl Street, Inc.

Checks Are Sent Out to Exhibitors

Checks amounting to $6,877 were mailed to 385 Ulster County Fair exhibitors today. In making the announcement Pratt Boice, treasurer of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the fair, asked that all recipients of the checks cooperate in depositing or cashing them promptly. It is necessary to send the canceled checks to Albany to receive the reimbursement from the state for premiums paid. Checks cleared after the state report goes in, no reimbursement is forthcoming.

Treasurer Boice reported that the amount of premiums paid has been increasing each year with over half being paid to 4-H Club exhibitors. The premium payments by departments were as follows: Horses, $503; Cattle, $645; Poultry, $287; Fruit, $82; Vegetables, $107; Granges, $618; Educational, $540; Homemaking, 462; and 4-H Club, $5,633.

MALENKOV CLIMBS IN POLITBURO

In Russia, where you stand in official pictures is very important. It isn't because you'll show up better, but because it tells how you rate with Joseph Stalin.
If your face disappears from the Politburo lineup, no one assumes you just couldn't make it that day. The general feeling is you've been bounced, demoted, sent to Siberia or shot.
There was understandable concern, therefore, when it was reported recently that a Politburo member named Lazar M. Kaganovich seemed to be missing from a Moscow display of Politburo portraits. Fortunately for Kaganovich, the report proved erroneous, thus saving him from quick internment at the hands of American foreign affairs experts.

On the other hand, another Politburo member gave evidence that there was no mistake in the recent picture showing him at Stalin's left elbow. According to Russia's photographic protocol, this makes the gentleman—Georgi M. Malenkov—the No. 3 man in the Soviet Union.

Malenkov spoke out the other day in tones of authority that seem to go with his increased stature. And because he occupies that No. 3 place at the Stalin elbow, we in the United States have to pay attention to what he said.

He declared that any new world war "will be the grave, not only for individual capitalist states, but for the whole of world capitalism." Malenkov naturally is thinking largely of this country when he talks about capitalism.

America has a plan, he said, to create a world empire, to make the rest of the globe a U. S. colony. This nation is being driven to seek this goal by frenzied "warmongers" who see us tottering on the edge of depression.

Now all that is a familiar Russian refrain. It represents wishful thinking of a sort we've been getting from Moscow for a long time.

Americans may find greater interest in other Malenkov statements. For example, he said that never before had Russia's frontiers been "so just and well arranged." If there is the slightest grain of sincerity in that comment, then it doesn't sound as if the Soviet Union were preparing to go bursting over its neighbors' borders—for the moment at least.

Malenkov asserted, as have his countrymen many times, that Russia doesn't want war and is doing all it can to prevent it. "The peace policy of the Soviet Union is the very basis of the Soviet system," he said.

Of course, nations bent on aggression nearly always talk peace right up to the moment when they launch their attack. The United States government is wisely skeptical of what might turn out to be just window dressing for war preparations.

On the other hand, this country knows it can never overlook the possibility that the Russians actually mean what they are saying when they shout peace.

LOVELY LUBRICATION

Most women, using mechanical helps in their housework, expect these gadgets to go on forever with no special attention. When called on for a repair job, a man's standard question is: "Don't you ever oil this thing?"

According to experts, cleaning and oiling are important aids in the efficient use of any machine. A dressmaking job goes faster and turns out better if the sewing machine has been cleaned and oiled first. The suction sweeper is quieter and more efficient if its operator hunts up those little oil holes and puts in a few drops of machine oil occasionally. The same is true of the electric mixer and any other piece of equipment which does not have its working parts packed in grease. If it has, there is a label which says so.

Careful treatment of machinery prolongs its life and makes the need of repair less frequent.

'These Days'
By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

If the two-party system means anything, more in the American scheme of politics, there ought to be a Republican Party. The monolithic political structure devised by Lenin and copied by Mussolini, Hitler, Franco, Chiang Kai-shek and Peron is not for the United States. What is likely to come out of the present status is a "catch-all" Democratic Party made up of factions from the Conservative Democrats to the Socialistic A.D.A. The Democratic Party then would stand for nothing in particular but would be an apparatus to achieve victory in elections, splitting up after each election into right and left wings with a speculative middle group opportunistically grabbing at power. Actually, that is the situation now in New York state.

John Foster Dulles, Republican candidate for senator, received 2,377,641 votes.
Herbert Lehman, on the Democratic line, received 2,149,347 votes.
Dulles' plurality in the Republican line over the Democratic Party was 228,294.

But along comes the Social-Democratic Liberal Party and gives Lehman an additional 424,587 votes—electing Lehman by 196,293.
Had the Socialists run a candidate of their own, frankly stipulating a Socialist program, Lehman might have been defeated. The Liberal Party is the New York State arm of the A.D.A., the Social-Democratic Party of America. This group received only 27,852 votes outside the city of New York, as compared with the Republican vote of 1,581,934 outside the city of New York. In fact, the combined Republican and Democratic vote outside the city of New York was 2,548,892 as compared with the Socialist 27,852. The assumption that the Socialists have made great inroads in the industrial cities of upper New York state is belied by the figures.

Yet, the Socialists, either in the form of the Liberal Party or the A.D.A., will exercise some influence because they can throw about 400,000 votes to any candidate they favor. Whenever this amount is the difference between victory and defeat, the candidates will be tempted to coalesce with the Socialists and make the winning principles may be to him. This Socialistist nest-egg is being used to corrupt the two-party system, many Republicans and Democrats falling to David Dubinsky's blandishments. The American Labor Party, which is the Communist political arm, uses the same device.

The Republican Party, not only in New York state, but nationally, is at the moment without acknowledged principle or leadership. To go into the 1950 congressional campaign so handicapped must prove disastrous. In many states, the party has left itself without contact with younger men and women. The national committee is generally regarded as a congeries of Old Fogies, incapable of exercising even a slight influence upon the party in the field or upon members of Congress. I would not be surprised to find the Republican Party in a national committee were chosen of men and women under 50 years of age, so that the distance between 1932 and the current generations might be more adequately bridged.

Republican national leadership, at this moment, rests solely in Robert A. Taft, who asserts his influence in Congress. Among the candidates for the presidency, I would not be surprised to find the Republican Party in a national committee were chosen of men and women under 50 years of age, so that the distance between 1932 and the current generations might be more adequately bridged.

And that is why the party has no money. It is tough enough to find the money in these days to contribute to what is called a "war chest," to contribute to something, inchoate if not exactly chaotic? When the Republican Party—apart from Robert A. Taft and his associates in Congress—stands for something which justifies association with it beyond sentimental continuity, there will be money for its work. Contributing is a luxury which few can afford except for good and pressing reasons.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.

POSSIBLE CAUSE OF SOME HEADACHES

I have written before of the writer who stated in a magazine article that, although he did not have a headache, he consulted several physicians in a certain city and told them he had a headache. Each physician prescribed a remedy; no two of the entire number of prescriptions being alike. The article was supposed to be a criticism of the physicians, but most physicians would smile as they thought of the hundred to two hundred possible causes of headache. A patient would also have a difficult time describing a headache that did not exist. The pain that occurs in the back of the head, neck, shoulder and sometimes down the arm, is caused by a ruptured or crushed disc (the cushion of hard tissue between the spine bones in the neck).

That headache can occur from a slight injury to the head or neck which may cause the head to be bent forward, according to Dr. A. J. Izard, Josey, Columbia, S. C., in "The Journal of the American Medical Association." If you stand sideways to a mirror, a natural position you will find that there are four curves in your spine: a curve forward in the neck, a curve backward in the upper back, a curve forward in the lower back and a curve backward over lowest end of spine. Dr. Josey points out that during the past two years a group of patients with headache of a particular variety consulted him. While a history of injury was not usually obtained, although close questioning revealed slight and forgotten injuries, there was usually a history of some sort of strain or "twinge" in the neck just previous to the appearance of the headache. The headaches appeared almost daily, beginning at the back of the head and neck and often extending to the forehead above the eyes.

However, the main sign was the position of the head and neck, the X-ray showing that the natural curve forward was not as far forward as it should have been. The position of the head at work, any exertion which placed a strain on the neck, or driving a car, often brought on the headache. Any bending forward of the head, lessening the natural curve forward of the neck, thus causing extra pull on the muscles of back, or neck may be one cause of this headache.

In these cases, the head should not be bent forward too long at one time. Heat applications to the back of head and neck give relief.

The Great Gold Rush of Forty-Nine

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Los Angeles — John Kennedy, live-wire publisher of the San Diego "Journal," recently took a man-in-the-street poll as to who represented California in the U. S. Senate. After some hesitation most of those polled were able to remember the name of Republican William Knowland, who has been in office less than a full term, but almost none was able to remember the name of California's senior senator, Sheridan Downey, now rounding out his 12th year in the Senate.

The political object lesson to be derived from Downey's anonymity is you can't be on every side of every issue and still keep the people's interest and respect. In 1935, Sheridan Downey was elected as a new and flaming Liberal. The oldersters, the labor leaders, the small farmers rallied behind him. He promised them what they wanted and they believed him.

Once elected, Mr. Downey went to Washington in a blaze of promises and expectations and simply sat. He took no vigorous stand on any issue. And it was only after many years as a Senate "mute" that the much-heralded gentleman from Southern California finally got active. Believe it or not, his activity was then cast on the side of those who originally tried to defeat him.

Sheridan, for strange reasons best known to himself, came out on the side of the big ranchers and the big utilities. Some attributed this weird about-face to his brother, an astute attorney who represents some of the big boys. Others attributed it to the idea that Sheridan knew Truman was sure to fail of reelection in 1948, so he, Sheridan, planned to bow out of the Senate and start practicing law for some of the big boys himself.

At any rate, the senator from California became a more rabid spokesman for the big land owners than anyone else in the Senate, even publishing a luxurious book on reclamation which had little sale and which could not have been financed very easily from a senator's salary.

Threatened to Block Adjournment
Most people didn't know it but, at the wind-up of Congress last month, Downey threatened to block adjournment with a filibuster if the Senate voted salaries to his twin enemies, Reclamation Commissioner Mike Straus and Regional Deputy Richard Boke.

For some time Downey has intimated that Commissioner Straus should not enforce the 160-acre limitation on land irrigated by the Federal Government. Unable to get Congress to abandon the 160-acre limitation, Downey didn't want the law enforced. And when Straus and Boke insisted on enforcement he succeeded in sneaking a rider through the Republican-controlled 80th Congress cutting their salaries.

Later, the Democratic 81st Congress put back the salaries and even voted to restore five months back pay. And it was that that caused Sheridan to gnash his teeth and threaten a filibuster. Downey made such force and ferocious noises that kindly Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, in a closed-door conference of Senate and House committees, begged that the salary issue be postponed until January.

"If not, Downey will filibuster and keep us here for weeks," Hayden urged.

"You don't know Downey," snorted Congressman Mike Kirwan of Youngstown, Ohio. "He hasn't got the guts. He talks big but runs out when you say boo at him." The Supreme Court continued Kirwan's already held in the cases of Lovett, Dodd and Watson, that these back salaries are payable. We also have a legal opinion from Lindsay Warren, the controller general, telling us that Straus and Boke have an even stronger case. I, for one, refuse to be bluffed by Sheridan Downey.

Congressman Kirwan was right. The Conference Committee restored the back salaries of Downey's mortal enemies, and the senator from California did not filibuster.

Desperate for Re-Election
Today, Senator Downey has changed his mind again, has decided there's life in the Democratic party yet, and is running for reelection. In fact, he's running desperately. His opponent is one of the ablest members of Congress, Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglass.

las. And Sheridan knows that he can't count on the oldsters, the small farmers and labor.

He can count on thousands of dollars of campaign contributions from the utilities and the big ranchers. But that will be in the primary. For if Downey by some miracle squeaks through the primary, the big boys will vote against him in the final election and for a Republican. For they, like so many others in California, have no respect for both-sides-of-the-fence Sheridan Downey.

"Who Are You, Anyway?"
A Manhattan urchin tugged at the gold-branded sleeve of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, as he and Mrs. Nimitz were emerging from a church service on Fifth Avenue.

"Hey, mister," said the kid, "give me your autograph." The admiral, who was in a good mood, gave him a bit of paper. Nimitz was willing. Have you got a pencil?" he asked.

"The boy begged a pencil from a bystander, and the one-time commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, using Mrs. Nimitz's handbag to write on, produced his signature.

But as Nimitz started to move on, the boy said, "Hey, mister, who are you, anyway?"

The Admiral chuckled. Mrs. Nimitz laughed. "There," she said, "there's one for your ego!"

Merry-Go-Round
The two greatest entertainment palaces in the world are controlled by government officials. Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer owns a majority interest in Coney Island, and ambassador to Egypt Stanton Griffis acquired control of Madison Square Garden in 1933.

The Interstate Commerce Commission kept its tongue in cheek when it ordered the railroads to cut down passenger service by 25 per cent on coal-burning lines. What the railroads didn't realize is that the commission overstepped its authority. The law under which the order was issued limits the commission's emergency powers to freight carriers.

The Russians have just turned down a request from the Israeli government for a $50,000,000 loan. Maj. Gen. James McIntyre, key man in the Defense Department's work on Capitol Hill, will retire next month—a real loss.

AS PEGLER SEES IT
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Nov. 14 — More than ten years ago, when, to my own surprise, I learned that the holy American Federation of Labor was a front for a band of the dirtiest crooks unhung, William Green, the president of this corrupt society, accused me of waging war on labor. We then made reparations. Anyone who exposed any of his racketeers, the brutal thieves preying on labor and industry, was a Wall Street hireling. Anyway, the rogues were rare and exceptional characters and after all, there had been faithful bankers and clerics.

The burden of my comeback was that they were not exceptional but typical and I undertook to prove up on at least a hundred of them—and did. Furthermore, I pointed out Bill Green never did anything to discredit any of them. Far from it, he lauded to them, went to their drunken brawls and testimonials, eulogized the worst of them in language that would have strangled any honest man right in his throat, and, in the pinches, stood up for the crooks against the persecuted rank and file who innocently asked to be Green, for deliverance and protection. I would be delighted to report that Green was a thief if I had any evidence, but the verdict on him is that he is just a fat-head. John L. Lewis, who had Green in the United Mine Workers for years and finally kicked him out, once said sympathetically, "The biggest union racketeer I ever met was Green."

I will have to leave you to grope for some reason why this nothing incarnate has been able to keep the presidency of one of the biggest union racketeers in the history of the movement all this time and especially in such times. Green is terrible, but prove something on him, prove that he is the real enemy of labor in supporting racketeers who abuse labor, and there stands Bill when the dust blows away, bumbling and bloviating as of old. It beats me.

A year ago July, Green went to Chicago for the quadrennial convention of the International Union of Operating Engineers, one of the worst in the whole A. F. of L., to register complaints against Bill Maloney, the president, and to appeal for contributions of "at least" $1 from all of the rank and file ostensibly to be spent on repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

Maloney is a big gun who went in for horse-racing, with a stable of registered studs country, he shipped around the country, winter palace on Miami Beach close to those of Dan Tobin, of the Teamsters, and Frank Nitto, of the Moving Picture Union racket, and a really de luxe estate near Arlington Heights, Ill. Joe Fay, one of Maloney's vice-presidents, couldn't be there. He had finally been convicted and sent away for ten years in New York for extortion.

A couple of other brothers were missing for the same reason, but the gang closed ranks and was carrying on. By coincidence, one of the current vice-presidents has the same name as a federal agent, an income tax man, who told me of the murder of one of the rank and file in Chicago after he had given the government information about Maloney's income. Frank P. Converse, of Cleveland, is a V-P of the racket.

Clarence Converse, the agent, had wanted to protect the rank-and-file, a man with a big family, who only wanted a square deal from Bill Green, but Converse couldn't guard him, because he had other work to do. The man telephoned Clarence Converse and evening that he had been chased through the streets and threatened with death. The next night as he went home, two street lights near his home were out and he was run through with gunfire by persons unknown. Nobody had the faintest idea who killed the poor man.

They are great onumbo-jumbo in these conclaves and so when the grand outer guard announced that President Green was outside, President Maloney interrupted some routine fixing to say: "It is with great pleasure."

"Man who always is working for the interest of the laboring people."

"Always on the job trying to benefit the working men of this great country."

With a swelling sense of great honor that I had the honor and pleasure to introduce to you William Green.

Green begins: "I am happy indeed, beyond measure that I am privileged to come in Chicago and meet with you and bring you the fraternal greetings of the A. F. of L."

"I am tremendously happy. President Maloney and his associates are devoted to the principles of thorough-going Americans in every sense of the word, compromising neither here nor there but defending those fundamental principles at any cost, let the chips fall where they may."

With a swelling sense of great honor that I had the honor and pleasure to introduce to you William Green.

The loot taken from this servant of the working man included two men's watches, one for each wrist, $2,500; a $7,000 bracelet and six pairs of diamond cuff links, value $600.

He didn't explain the overstock of perfume he didn't have to. Your nose knows. (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

DeWitt Has Part In Defense of Greenwich Woman

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Hester McCullough has declared that she took from official sources information on which she based statements that entailed Larry Adler and Paul Draper were affiliated with "Communist front organizations."

Mrs. McCullough, defendant in a $200,000 libel suit brought by Adler and Draper, was given a pre-trial examination here yesterday in the office of her lawyers. Under questioning by Macdonald De Witt of Kingston, a New York libel expert associated with the defense, she said lists of "Communist front organizations" published by congressional committees and other official Washington sources were the sources of her information about the entertainers.

Adler, a harmonica player and Draper, a dancer, have filed suit in the Federal Court in New Haven for $100,000 damages, each. They contend that Mrs. McCullough branded them pro-Communists after they had been booked for a Greenwich appearance last January, and that the damaged their professional reputations by having a letter published in a Greenwich newspaper implying they were Communist sympathizers.

Winchell's Mother Dies in Fall From Hospital Window

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Miss Jennie Winchell, 77, mother of Walter Winchell, plunged to her death last night from her room on the 10th floor of Doctor's Hospital.

Her private nurse, Kathleen Carlton, said she had left Miss Winchell's room for a few minutes to obtain the patient's evening meal, and returned to find a window open and Mrs. Winchell gone.

The elderly woman's nightgown-clad body was found on the 87th street sidewalk below. The official police report said she either fell or jumped.

Mrs. Winchell was admitted to the hospital October 24 for treatment of a heart ailment from which she had suffered for several years.

The wife of the columnist and broadcaster said she had notified her husband who was in Miami, Fla., and that he was flying back to New York immediately. She said Winchell told her he had had a "premonition of disaster."

The wife said she had spent several hours with her mother-in-law yesterday, and that the elderly woman seemed in good spirits. When Winchell went to Florida two weeks ago, she said he had tried to persuade his mother to make the trip but she had not felt well enough.

The elder Mrs. Winchell spent the late summer and early fall in California in the hope of improving her health. Her daughter-in-law went to the west coast recently and accompanied the columnist's mother back to New York.

Winchell's father, Jacob, a retired silk merchant, died in 1940. Another son, Al, is associated with the Emerson Radio and Phonograph Corporation.

Four Communities, Kingston Sections Will Get Stamps

Buy Christmas Seals

Help Stamp Out TB

Four county communities and two sections of the city of Kingston will receive first delivery of 1949 Christmas seals by homing pigeon on Saturday, November 19.

Pigeon raisers who have agreed to release homing pigeons from Academy Park in this city on that date are Donald Nielsen of Port Jervis, Joseph Muculski of New Paltz, Edmund Allbut of Marlborough, James Davis of Hurler, and Al Larsen and John Boice of Kingston.

The birds will be released from Academy Park at 2:30 p. m. Saturday with appropriate ceremonies. Each pigeon will carry several Christmas seals in a capsule attached to its leg. The pigeons are expected to fly to their home lofts, where town chairmen will be standing by to receive the seals.

The event will mark the opening of the 1949 Christmas Seal Sale campaign, in which the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association hopes to raise a minimum of $22,000. Edmund P. Rochford, general chairman of the sale, estimates that this amount is the minimum needed to carry on the association's program of tuberculosis and venereal disease prevention, nutrition and mental health education. Christmas seals are the association's sole source of revenue, he said.

The idea of using homing pigeons for the opening event was suggested by the design of the 1949 seal, which depicts a modernistic dove in flight, carrying a sprig of Christmas holly and a banner proclaiming greetings.

The Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association hopes to enlist other raisers of homing pigeons, so that seals may be sent to other parts of the county. The Ulster County 4-H Clubs are co-operating having sent letters to its members in the hopes of locating other pigeon fanciers who have homing pigeons.

Although there are many pigeon fanciers in the county, most raise either fancy or squabbling varieties, not suitable for carrying messages, according to Dr. Clement I. Angstrom, chairman of the opening event.

Also planned for the opening event is the singing of Christmas carols by a group of 30 choristers from School No. 6 in this city, under the direction of Miss Anna Quimby, school singing supervisor.

Brief addresses will be given by Dr. Robert H. Broad, county health commissioner, Edmund Rochford, general chairman of the seal sale, and Harry S. Ensign, president of the Tuberculosis and Health Association.

On Friday evening, November 18, the association plans to have an exhibit at the Montgomery Ward and company store on North Front street, in this city, in which several pigeons will be exhibited in their cages and pigeon fanciers will be on hand to answer any questions asked of them relative to the types of pigeons, their uses and other facts of pigeon lore.

Arsenal School Damaged by Fire

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 15 (AP)—A spectacular four-alarm fire swept through two buildings of the old Arsenal School in densely populated North Hartford early today.

A three-story brick building fronting on North Main street and used as a community center and library, was the most extensively damaged.

A two-story brick building adjoining and used as a public school was damaged by fire and water but school authorities said they would be able to resume sessions tomorrow.

Fire Chief Henry Thomas said the probable cause of the blaze was defective wiring in the community center building where the fire started in the basement. No estimate of the damage was immediately available.

Anybody Can Write

By FRANK TRIFF

For a long time I've had the urge to write an article about writing an article; reveal what to do when there's nothing to write about. This seems to be the week.

Every now and then, I hear from a hopeful who is eager to join the ranks of the 10,000 odd columnists—and "odd" is the right word. Writing a column is a pinch. Here's the formula:

All you do is start writing, like gabby folks start to talk, before they have anything to say. What you write aimlessly uncovers a topic.

Anybody can write. The trick is to write what somebody will read.

That's my problem right now. Of course, the news bulges with things of which to write. But I'm plagued by friends not to go on. They say that I do much better re paper collars, red flannel shirts and flapjacks.

Well, flapjacks are griddle cakes; wheat cakes, pancakes, stacks of hot or whatever name clicks in your parish. Even the lofty crepe suzette is of the flapjack family and the waffle is a corrugated flapjack.

Down South, the pretty much just flapjack—or corn-dogder. When came the prudent advice of the Southern mammy: "Wobble your corn-dogder in the ham fat, honey; your pappy pays as much as anybody."

WHICH REMINDS ME of a sticky, sultry morning in the station restaurant at Greensboro, N. C. I never could make Northern cooks believe the story.

A man near me was served a strange breakfast dish, something swimming in grease.

"What's that?" I asked the waitress. "Want some?"

"Cantaloupe and gravy," she replied. "Want some?"

"No thanks," I said and couldn't enjoy my breakfast for thought of it.

Every locality has its unique food dish. No doubt cantaloupe and gravy would prove no more revolting to shark fin addicts than would my buckwheat pancakes, spread with brown-fried sauerkraut. But I love 'em with just a touch of maple syrup.

Or with the rich gravy of side pork—streak-o-lean, streak-o-fat—floating over the buckwheat brownies. That'll put a hangover around your belt.

RELATIVELY FEW PEOPLE get to enjoy buckwheat cakes, leastwise not the good old-fashioned kind.

My mother always started her pitcher of buckwheat batter with the first frost. It was kept on the back porch and brought in at night, to be primed for the morning onslaught by pop and me.

The flavor was purposely kept just a wee bit sour, which added a zest not present in other methods. Touches of baking soda kept it just right. More thought of it drives me hungry.

When, through some disaster, we had to switch to wheat cakes there was gloom in the household; till mom brought back the buckwheats, which were our winter breakfast as certain as the morning came.

AS FAR AS I KNOW, the flapjack is an American institution. They were pretty much standard morning fare before people worried about their girth.

Those days folks worked and walked more; needed the fuel which hearty breakfasts gave them. They ate flapjacks of one sort or another with gusto; often a dozen at a sitting; oblivious of warnings that they dug their graves with their teeth.

Most of them lived to be lusty champions of the flapjack and to lament with me, the passing of the old batter jar, replaced by a patented package on the pantry shelf.

The few who succumbed died full and fat and happy; and are no dearer than those who worried themselves to death trying to keep thin.

So, you see how easy it is to write a column—even when there's nothing to write about.

Reinforced Bones Need Only to Be Straightened Out

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (A.P. Science Editor)

Cincinnati, Nov. 15—How would you like one of the new reinforced leg bones? Break it and the surgeon merely has to straighten it out. No cast, no medicine, no long hospital stay.

Or a reinforced hand? All he does is to straighten it out after the break.

Both these things actually happened, and the X-ray photograph of the leg bone is on exhibition here at the Southern Medical Association Convention.

These reinforced bones are by-products of a new method of mending broken bones. The mending is done by pushing a stainless steel rod—four big bones almost a girder—down through the hollow marrow tunnel of the bone. Doctors call these rods "pins." The longest is nearly two feet.

Two exhibits show how. The miraculous leg is in an exhibit by Dr. Stuart, M.D., of Kentucky Veterans' Hospital, Memphis. A broken thigh bone was mended by a shining, diamond shaped rod, so strong that it takes 70 pounds to flex.

The patient walked around in a few weeks on his reinforced leg and drank too much red liquor. A nasty fall broke the same leg again, in fact bent it 20 degrees. The doctors merely bent the thigh straight and turned him loose.

The reason for this new surgery is quicker return to work, for broken thighs a few weeks instead of nearly a year, faster healing, no casts, less complications.

Even among doctors this mending is credited to Germany early in the war. But years before Germany it was done at Meridian, Miss., by Doctors Leslie V. Rush and H. Lowry Rush.

They have an exhibit here with some new type "pins" that mend not only thighs, but lower legs, broken knees, ankles, feet, and both upper and lower arms, wrists, hands and collar bones.

Perhaps a football team with reinforced bones could beat Notre Dame.

Opposition Fooled By Quick Thinking

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

The play Mrs. Helen Sobel, of New York, made in today's hand is the kind of play that rates her as one of the greatest players in the country. By the way, I think you will enjoy her new book entitled "All the Tricks."

Against the four heart contract West made a normal lead. If you have not read any further in the article, just what card would you play from the dummy (the North hand), the king or the jack? Of course you can see that both the ace and the queen are in the East hand, but if you did not know they were there, which card would you play? If you play either one of them you are wrong.

The play Mrs. Sobel made was the six spot. She played it so quickly that East, without stopping to think, played the seven. Now there is no way that East and West can defeat the contract. Mrs. Sobel ruffed the second spade trick, drew two rounds of hearts and started the club suit. If West trumps the third round of clubs, all he can cash is the ace of diamonds. If he plays a spade Mrs. Sobel will trump it and cash out the clubs, discarding a diamond from dummy. In this way she can ice only one diamond.

On the first trick if Mrs. Sobel had put on the jack or king of spades, East would have won the trick and returned the jack of diamonds, which would have defeated the contract. Oh! yes, if East had thought fast enough when Mrs. Sobel played the six of spades, he could have overtaken his partner's ten spot and returned a diamond, which also would have defeated the contract.

Hoover Praises Ad Men, Then Chides Their Sins

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Likening the structure of the American standard of living to that of a cake, former President Herbert Hoover praised the advertising profession last night for creating the top layer.

But he chided 200 advertising executives for such "sins" as the singing commercial, and billboards cluttering the countryside.

"You have some sins to answer for," he said at a dinner of the Advertising Club of New York.

"Sometime, I have a dreamy hope you will cease using the scenery to urge pills on me when I am seeking those solitudes where fish alone can dwell."

Mr. Hoover received a "pinque of achievement" from the club for his "inspiring leadership and unselfish devotion to the public weal."

The award was made at a dinner sponsored jointly by the club and the Advertising Federation of America.

PEDALS

by JAMES H. WINTERS

In a piano having three pedals, "what is the function of the middle pedal?" is a question very often asked. Well, the mechanics of this center pedal differ greatly in different pianos. In the better grand pianos it is rather tricky to use. It is mainly for very advanced students or artists to use but the proper use gives lovely effects. One strikes a note or several notes that you wish to sustain without having other notes sustained. Then before letting these keys come back up the center pedal is pressed down. Then other notes may be played but only the ones that were held down before the pedal was depressed will be sustained. With practice this is done quickly without any pause in playing. In the lower priced grands this pedal has the same action as the right "loud" or sustaining pedal but only in the bass section. In many spinets and uprights the action is the same—sustaining only the bass section. On some uprights and spinets the center pedal is connected with the same action as the left or "soft" pedal. On still other uprights and at least one make of spinet the center pedal pulls down a strip of felt between the hammers and the strings producing a very soft or muffled tone. Many spinets and uprights have only two pedals which are all that is necessary for the average pianist. Our grand pianos all have the third or middle pedal with the action described first or of the better construction. We have spinets with both two and three pedals so you have your choice and you take your pick.

ARTHRITIS

of cases after one application

Working with a group of patients, physicians found that a single application of new Sloan's Balm relieved painful symptoms in the following amazing percentage of cases: Arthritis (rheumatic) pains 61%, bursitis pains 33%, muscular aches 60%, neuralgic pains 92%, sprains 100%, backaches 51%... average of foregoing cases 63%

Sloan's Balm is different from anything else. It induces "intra-muscular warmth" deep down in the tissues, evidence of an increased flow of blood, which hastens removal of waste matter and helps nourish tissues. This effect lasts for hours and extends at least an inch below the surface—in most cases down to the region where the pain is. In scientific tests, Sloan's Balm proved itself up to 232 times as effective as other remedies tested, in creating comforting warmth in tissues. No wonder it brings new relief. So, whatever else you take for rheumatic pains or muscular aches, also use Sloan's Balm—to increase circulation of health-giving blood in the painful area. Pleasantly scented. Easy to use. Get it today.

County Engineers Form Chapter of State Group

Engineers of Ulster county, assisted by members of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers, last night formed a chapter of the state society at the Stuyvesant Hotel. Among those attending were men prominent in the state organization, and several local engineers including, left to right: Robert Read, New York, executive secretary of the state organization; Augustus Brincker, Kingston; William W. Perry, Binghamton, past state president; Charles L. Vogt, Kingston, temporary chairman of the local chapter; George J. Nicastro, New York, president of the state society; G. D. St. Leger, Kingston and W. L. Prout, Fishkill, zone director. (Freeman Photo.)

Vogt Is Elected Engineer Leader

Charles L. Vogt, local engineer, was elected temporary chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, New York State Society of Professional Engineers, which organized last night at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

A formal election to name all officers for the chapter, which will be the 26th in the state, will be held in the near future. The local group was assisted in organizing by Engineer George Nicastro of New York, president of the state society, and others attending were: William W. Perry, past state president; Harry Funk, public relations director; Robert C. Read, executive secretary, and William Prout, zone director, all of 1000 state organization. Other engineers from chapters of the region attended.

Engineer Funk stressed the aims and activities of the organization and dealt with its importance to public service and the consolidation of all qualified engineers in a profession legally and publicly recognized. The county chapter has a starting membership of 20 engineers, and the date of its next meeting will be announced later.

Maritime Trouble

Such an arrangement is in effect on the west coast. The 500 vessels in operation for 38 companies involved in the dispute employ about 2,000 officers. More than twice that number are available for service, having trained for the big merchant marine fleet needed during World War II. About 25,000 crew members would be made idle by a strike, the government estimates.

Fewer Deer Licenses Are Issued in City

Fewer deer hunting licenses will have been issued this year in Kingston than last year, it was estimated by the city clerk's office this morning.

Prior to the opening of the deer season in this area this morning, the city clerk's office issued exactly 300 licenses. Last year, a total of 444 deer licenses were issued. Although some licenses will be given out between now and the close of the season, if the experience of past years holds true, the number of late licenses will not be enough to bring the yearly total up to last year's figures, city clerk's office personnel said.

The Ulster County Clerk, however, reported an increase in the number of licenses issued. In the first 14 days of the season, he said, 255 resident big game licenses were sold, compared to 208 deer licenses issued the first 14 days of last year.

In addition to the city and county clerk licenses, are issued by town clerks and by the New York State Conservation Department. This year, deer hunters must purchase a combined deer and bear license at $2.50 under new state regulations. Last year, licenses to hunt deer alone were obtainable at $1.25 each.

Rail Coach Tickets

When compared to the general level of incomes "and prices generally," I.C.C. Chairman Charles D. Mahaffie differed sharply, filing a dissent for himself and three other commissioners. He said the failure of the previous postwar increases to halt the passenger revenue decline should be a warning that additional travel business may be lost.

It was his suggestion that the railroads "experiment with reduced fares rather than further increases." The territory affected is east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, plus the so-called Potomac region of West Virginia and northern sections of Virginia.

With one absentee, the case was considered by ten members of the 11-man commission.

Male Taxidancers Signed

Osaka, Nov. 15 (AP)—A novel dance hall will open here next Monday. It will employ only male taxidancers. The operators said the hall was designed to meet the demands of women "who are dance maniacs or otherwise dance enthusiasts but who lack proper partners." Prospective taxidancers must be good looking, tops in personality and certified as of good character—that's all.

Gandhi Assassins Hanged in India

Amhala, India, Nov. 15 (AP)—The young editor who assassinated Mohandas K. Gandhi and the man who told him to do it were sprung simultaneously through a gallows trap at the Amhala central jail this morning. Their bodies were cremated immediately afterward.

Narayan V. Godse and Narayan B. Apte, two Hindu nationalists, walked to their death with smiles on their faces. Their foreheads were painted with sacred marks. Each man carried a small package, presumably of Hindu scriptures, which they were allowed to hold as their hands were tied behind them.

A moment before the trap was sprung, the two young fanatics shouted in unison "May the United India be immortal. We salute the holy motherland."

These were the Nationalist slogans that had inflamed them to take the life of the sainted Hindu spiritual leader who united violence so much he tried to end Moslem-Hindu strife.

A witness to the execution, which ended a two-year legal battle following Gandhi's assassination in a New Delhi garden Jan. 30, 1948, said the two men thanked their jurors for their kindness and asked that they "finish the business quickly."

Godse, the 26-year-old editor of the Panna Daily, had fired the shot that killed Gandhi as he walked to prayer in front of hundreds of his followers. Apte, the publisher of the newspaper, was executed for leading the plot. Four other men received sentences of life in prison for participation in the plot, while a fifth was acquitted.

At his trial Godse testified that the spiritual leader's defense of Moslems in Pakistan was basic to the dream of a united India.

The Supreme Court Chamber in Washington contains only 37 seats.

on their faces. Their foreheads were painted with sacred marks. Each man carried a small package, presumably of Hindu scriptures, which they were allowed to hold as their hands were tied behind them.

A moment before the trap was sprung, the two young fanatics shouted in unison "May the United India be immortal. We salute the holy motherland."

These were the Nationalist slogans that had inflamed them to take the life of the sainted Hindu spiritual leader who united violence so much he tried to end Moslem-Hindu strife.

A witness to the execution, which ended a two-year legal battle following Gandhi's assassination in a New Delhi garden Jan. 30, 1948, said the two men thanked their jurors for their kindness and asked that they "finish the business quickly."

Godse, the 26-year-old editor of the Panna Daily, had fired the shot that killed Gandhi as he walked to prayer in front of hundreds of his followers. Apte, the publisher of the newspaper, was executed for leading the plot. Four other men received sentences of life in prison for participation in the plot, while a fifth was acquitted.

At his trial Godse testified that the spiritual leader's defense of Moslems in Pakistan was basic to the dream of a united India.

The Supreme Court Chamber in Washington contains only 37 seats.
